Not illustrated. 1881 Excerpt: . snapped audibly, and flexion and extension of the limb were immediately perfect. He recovered from the effects of chloroform almost as the mouth-piece was removed, and immediately leaped from the bed on which he was lying and rushed into the next room, where his father was sitting, using the hip-joint in the most natural manner. A gutta-percha splint was subsequently applied to keep the joint at rest. Very slight pain followed the operation, and in the evening he was entirely free from pain. He slept well during the night without an opiate. On the third day the splint was discontinued and the limb was slightly moved: there was no pain about the joint. After ten days he could bear the limb to be flexed at a right angle. Power was gained rapidly, so that in the course of a month the thigh could be raised, unassisted, beyond a right angle with the trunk. In January he walked freely, with the support of a stick, the sole of his boot being raised one inch. When I last saw him, about a year after the operation, he could walk three miles without fatigue, and he walked that distance almost every day. He carried a stick, but he did not use it in walking. Case 12.--Ankylosis of the hip-joint. i S--i when seven years of age, suffered from strumous disease of the hip-joint. Abscesses formed and broke at various points down to the middle of the thigh, and...
