But very often we have to do with bodies that are acted upon by forces not parallel to each other. Thus when a ladder standing upon the ground leans against a house, we have at least three forces acting upon the ladder: 1st, the earth's attraction, or, as we call it often, the weight of the body, which acts as if the whole substance were at the centre of gravity; 2d, the push of the ground against the foot of the ladder, which push is not straight upward; 3d, the push of the wall against the top of the ladder. Again, a flying kite is acted upon by the earth's pull, straight downward; by the force exerted by the air, which force, because of the wind, is not straight upward; by the pull of the string, which pull is not straight downward. The way to begin the study of such cases is to study the case of three forces all acting straight from or straight toward a single point. We shall take such a case in Exercise 17. EXERCISE 17.
